

Feedback and Consultation

Listening to and understanding your views

A major part of the development process for the Valley of the Winds wind farm has always been sharing information and involving the local community. In the past, the project team has undertaken a number of face-to-face Community Information Sessions in Coolah and surrounds, allowing the community to provide input. However, given the challenging COVID-19 situation and travel restrictions, the project team is instead facilitating virtual one-on-one sessions to allow us to share exciting project updates with you, whilst encouraging discussion and answering any questions that you may have. Although nothing beats a face-to-face conversation, we look forward to chatting to you. Hopefully it won't be long until we're able to get together again.

You can provide feedback via the form on our project website or by emailing votw@upc-ac.com

We also hope to hold regular Community Information Drop in sessions to help you provide feedback to direct to our project team.

Who is UPC\AC Renewables Australia?

UPC\AC Renewables Australia is a joint venture between the UPC Renewables Group and AC Energy. We develop, construct, own and operate renewable energy projects throughout their operational life. This business model drives us to build long lasting and trusted relationships with the local community for many years to come.
